

Science Matters to Louisiana

Research Universities

Learn about the work being done at some of the major research universities in Louisiana:

Louisiana State University and Agricultural & Mechanical College

Louisiana Tech University

Southern University and A&M College, Baton Rouge

Tulane University

University of New Orleans

Follow the latest on research in Louisiana:

@LA_Research

@LSUResearchNews

Federally Funded Research in Louisiana

Federal funding for scientific research reaches every state in the nation. See the impact of funding to organizations in Louisiana from three of the major government research agencies:

National Institutes of Health:

In FY2016, organizations in Louisiana received 297 awards from NIH, across all of its institutes, totaling $141,817,492.

National Science Foundation:

In FY2016, organizations in Louisiana received 166 awards from NSF, across all of its programs, totaling $45,645,000.

Department of Energy Office of Science:

In 2015, educational organizations in Louisiana received research awards from the DOE office of Science worth $5,197,388.

Companies Created from Research in Louisiana

NanoFex, incubated at the New Orleans BioInnovation Center, develops and produces next generation cellulose nanospheres using a customized spray dryer process. The company utilizes the research of its Scientific Advisor, and Tulane University professor, Dr. Vijay John, who is an expert in chemical remediation.

Learn more about Tulane University spin out companies here.

Learn about more companies created from federally funded research here.

