

Science Matters to Vermont

Research Universities

Learn about the work being done at some of the major research universities in Vermont:

University of Vermont

Federally Funded Research in Vermont

Federal funding for scientific research reaches every state in the nation. See the impact of funding to organizations in Vermont from three of the major government research agencies:

National Institutes of Health:

In FY2016, organizations in Vermont received 115 awards from NIH, across all of its institutes, totaling $48,758,135.

National Science Foundation:

In FY2016, organizations in Vermont received 34 awards from NSF, across all of its programs, totaling $9,711,000.

Department of Energy Office of Science:

In 2015, educational organizations in Vermont benefitted from research awards from the DOE office of Science worth $299,745.

Companies Created from Research in Vermont

Stromatec develops technology to support new diagnostic, treatment, and care tools for chronic musculoskeletal pain and connective tissue abnormalities. The company's technologies emerged from research by founder, and University of Vermont professor, Dr. Helene Langevin.

Learn about more companies created from federally funded research here.

